A photograph of a woman in a red sweater raising her hand in a classroom. She is holding a pen in her raised hand. In the background, a man in a light blue shirt is standing and speaking to the class. Other students are visible in the foreground and background, some with their hands raised. The scene is set in a modern classroom with large windows.

A young man with a goatee and a ponytail, wearing a dark green sweater, is smiling warmly at the camera. He is seated at a white conference table. In the background, several other people are engaged in a meeting. A whiteboard is visible with handwritten notes and numerous colorful sticky notes. The setting appears to be a modern office or meeting room.
